

For our next project in English class, students will be participating in literature circles, which resemble small book clubs where students read together in small groups and discuss books that they choose for themselves. Students can choose from collections I have gathered in the class, or find a selection on their own with two other classmates. There are many benefits to this arrangement, most of all the opportunity to choose what they are reading in class. The purpose of this permission slip is to let you know what we are doing in class, and to give you the opportunity to guide your child's book choice if you wish to do so. For this project, the students are selecting a book that is considered realistic fiction and conducting research on the topic the book addresses. They can also select a title that is considered historical fiction, so they will have plenty of books from which to choose. Please contact me at lamothe@tantasqua.org if you have specific questions about a specific book your child selects.
